

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory

By Marek Haltof

Download now

Read Online

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof

During World War II Poland lost more than six million people, including about three million Polish Jews who perished in the ghettos and extermination camps built by Nazi Germany in occupied Polish territories. This book is the first to address the representation of the Holocaust in Polish film and does so through a detailed treatment of several films, which the author frames in relation to the political, ideological, and cultural contexts of the times in which they were created. Following the chronological development of Polish Holocaust films, the book begins with two early classics: Wanda Jakubowska's The Last Stage (1948) and Aleksander Ford's Border Street (1949), and next explores the Polish School period, represented by Andrzej Wajda's A Generation (1955) and Andrzej Munk's The Passenger (1963). Between 1965 and 1980 there was an "organized silence" regarding sensitive Polish-Jewish relations resulting in only a few relevant films until the return of democracy in 1989 when an increasing number were made, among them Krzysztof Kieślowski's Decalogue 8 (1988), Andrzej Wajda's Korczak (1990), Jan Jakub Kolski's Keep Away from the Window (2000), and Roman Polański's The Pianist (2002). An important contribution to film studies, this book has wider relevance in addressing the issue of Poland's national memory.

 Download Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory ...pdf

 Read Online Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memo ...pdf

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory

By Marek Haltof

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof

During World War II Poland lost more than six million people, including about three million Polish Jews who perished in the ghettos and extermination camps built by Nazi Germany in occupied Polish territories. This book is the first to address the representation of the Holocaust in Polish film and does so through a detailed treatment of several films, which the author frames in relation to the political, ideological, and cultural contexts of the times in which they were created. Following the chronological development of Polish Holocaust films, the book begins with two early classics: Wanda Jakubowska's The Last Stage (1948) and Aleksander Ford's Border Street (1949), and next explores the Polish School period, represented by Andrzej Wajda's A Generation (1955) and Andrzej Munk's The Passenger (1963). Between 1965 and 1980 there was an "organized silence" regarding sensitive Polish-Jewish relations resulting in only a few relevant films until the return of democracy in 1989 when an increasing number were made, among them Krzysztof Kieślowski's Decalogue 8 (1988), Andrzej Wajda's Korczak (1990), Jan Jakub Kolski's Keep Away from the Window (2000), and Roman Polański's The Pianist (2002). An important contribution to film studies, this book has wider relevance in addressing the issue of Poland's national memory.

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof Bibliography

- Rank: #2515818 in eBooks
- Published on: 2012-01-30
- Released on: 2012-01-30
- Format: Kindle eBook

 Download Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory ...pdf

 Read Online Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memo ...pdf

Editorial Review

Review

Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2012

"In this excellently researched, highly informative survey of Polish films about the Holocaust, Haltof... expands on a chapter in his valuable Polish National Cinema... His measured assessments, conveyed in clear, accessible prose, are rooted in an enviable command of both the relevant production documents and important secondary literature. The select list of relevant films and television programs is very useful. The ample notes and fine bibliography incorporate many Polish sources as well as all the available literature in English." • Choice

"Marek Haltof's monograph is the most comprehensive, scholarly contribution to have emerged in a long neglected field of study: the Holocaust in Polish film. His 'survey' is insightful and substantial, and sheds new light on films little known even to a connoisseur... [He] has intertwined the difficult theme of the complex and varying Communist policy (and politics) with the development of postwar cinema, while the linear narrative constitutes a sophisticated meditation on the difficulties faced by Polish and Polish-Jewish filmmakers in the decades since 1945. This is a significant study that will prove indispensable to historians of post-war Polish film and the Holocaust, separately and together, along with all those concerned with Polish-Jewish relations after 1945." • Patterns of Prejudice

"By discussing many works that have fallen below Western critical radar, Haltof's analyses offer a very useful mapping of the filmmakers and films that address these topics. He does not shy away from the sometimes difficult historical controversies the films elicit or from offering sensible criticisms of the artistic failings of certain works he discusses. With this volume, our understanding of Poland's cinematic engagement with the Holocaust has been elevated to a new, higher level, even as certain omissions and blind spots in Haltof's study shows how much more essential work still needs to be done." • Cineaste Magazine

"Marek Haltof's study is impressive in its breadth and depth. Polish Film and the Holocaust encompasses a variety of motion pictures - many of which were never released outside Poland - while illuminating individual titles with an informed, nuanced perspective... In the continually charged context of Polish-Jewish relations, Haltof's book provides an elegant bridge between what he terms competing versions of victimization by history." • Slavic Review

"...displays the same virtues as Marek Haltof's Polish National Cinema, from the same publisher, to which the new book forms in a sense a companion piece. Here too one has a judicious and well-organized chronological survey... the result of a good deal of compilation, research and effective synthesis. The work is highly economical, packing discussion of a large number of films... into 229 pages of discursive text... Haltof's book not only informs non-Poles about Poles' attempts adequately to conceptualize events often considered beyond representation; his practice offers an examples and encouragement to further archival work." • Studies in Eastern European Cinema

"Representations of the Holocaust are among the most well researched topics in contemporary film studies, but Polish cinema still remains of marginal interest to the international academic world... Therefore, Marek Haltof's achievement is especially appreciated as he highlights different motives of the Holocaust in the works of Polish filmmakers in his complex and important study." • Pol.Int.Org

"Marek Haltof's monograph is the most comprehensive scholarly contribution to have emerged with respect to a long neglected field of study: the Holocaust in Polish film. Haltof's 'survey' is insightful, substantial, and sheds new light on films little known even to a connoisseur. Most importantly his evocation of films made during the years of 'official silence'... demands a re-evaluation from all scholars of post-war Jewish life in Poland... This is a significant study that will prove indispensable to historians of post-war Polish film, and the Holocaust, separately and together, along with all those concerned with Polish-Jewish relations after 1945." • Polin

"...the author has identified a significant and little examined subject for study, and displays a deep knowledge of it... Where previously the issue of Polish film and the Holocaust had been addressed in single articles or chapters on the depiction of the Holocaust in particular films, here, for the first time we have a history." • Jeremy Hicks, University of London

About the Author

Marek Haltof is Professor at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. His recent books include the Historical Dictionary of Polish Cinema (2007), Australian Cinema: The Screen Construction of Australia (in Polish, 2005), The Cinema of Krzysztof Kie?lowski: Variations on Destiny and Chance (2004), and Polish National Cinema (2002).

Users Review

From reader reviews:

Joshua Shaw:

The feeling that you get from Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory is a more deep you digging the information that hide inside words the more you get enthusiastic about reading it. It doesn't mean that this book is hard to recognise but Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory giving you joy feeling of reading. The writer conveys their point in particular way that can be understood through anyone who read this because the author of this guide is well-known enough. This particular book also makes your personal vocabulary increase well. That makes it easy to understand then can go together with you, both in printed or e-book style are available. We propose you for having this kind of Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory instantly.

Rafael Arent:

The reserve untitled Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory is the guide that recommended to you to learn. You can see the quality of the reserve content that will be shown to an individual. The language that article author use to explained their ideas are easily to understand. The author was did a lot of study when write the book, therefore the information that they share for you is absolutely accurate. You also will get the e-book of Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory from the publisher to make you much more enjoy free time.

Earnestine Marcus:

Spent a free time and energy to be fun activity to try and do! A lot of people spent their spare time with their family, or all their friends. Usually they accomplishing activity like watching television, gonna beach, or picnic inside park. They actually doing same every week. Do you feel it? Would you like to something different to fill your current free time/ holiday? May be reading a book is usually option to fill your totally free time/ holiday. The first thing you ask may be what kinds of book that you should read. If you want to test look for book, may be the e-book untitled Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory can be good book to read. May be it could be best activity to you.

Nick McAllister:

In this era which is the greater man or woman or who has ability to do something more are more valuable than other. Do you want to become one of it? It is just simple method to have that. What you are related is just spending your time almost no but quite enough to enjoy a look at some books. One of the books in the top list in your reading list is actually Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory. This book which can be qualified as The Hungry Hillside can get you closer in becoming precious person. By looking way up and review this guide you can get many advantages.

Download and Read Online Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof #O6DFJCL9RE2

Read Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof for online ebook

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof Free PDF d0wnl0ad, audio books, books to read, good books to read, cheap books, good books, online books, books online, book reviews epub, read books online, books to read online, online library, greatbooks to read, PDF best books to read, top books to read Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof books to read online.

Online Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof ebook PDF download

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof Doc

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof Mobipocket

Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof EPub

O6DFJCL9RE2: Polish Film and the Holocaust: Politics and Memory By Marek Haltof