Editorial Review

From the Back Cover

“In A Non-Freaked Out Guide to Teaching the Common Core, Dave Stuart stands between us and the Common Core standards like an Eagle Scout with all the badges who has prepared for this opportunity to help educators not only survive, but thrive, in the era of the Common Core.... I find substantial encouragement and comfort in Dave’s practical and optimistic approach toward the standards, for he says, in short, let us accept them as an opportunity to improve our teaching, an invitation to learn.”

—Jim Burke, author of The Common Core Companion and The English Teacher’s Companion

“Fans of Stuart’s wonderful blog, Teaching the Core, will find a wealth of insight and practical advice here on what the new standards say students should be able to do and how teachers can help them do it.... If you’re a teacher or school administrator wondering how to help your students play the academic intellectual game, Dave Stuart is your guy!”

—Gerald Graff, professor of English and Education, University of Illinois at Chicago; 2008 president, Modern Language Association of America
