From the Inside Flap

A Journey into the Heart of Leadership Although he's one of the most successful high school basketball coaches in Kentucky's history, Steve Rucker, for the first time in his life, is falling short of expectations. His players have lost their will to win, their love for their teammates, and their passion to play. Coach Rucker's motivational methods that have always worked before-- and have resulted in his success---are now failing, and he doesn't know why. Struggling to understand what's happening, Coach seeks the counsel of one of his most successful friends, CEO Grant Steffin, who, while fighting his own battles, offers advice based on his own leadership experiences. Coach Rocker also stumbles upon some unexpected insight from---of all people--Joe Taylor, the high school janitor.As Coach's season spirals downward, and as he continues to interact with these two intriguing men, the "why" questions become louder and louder in his head. Why does he do what he does? Or for that matter, why does he even exist? These questions eventually push him to go deeper into his own heart than he ever imagined possible to determine his purpose not only in leadership but also in life."A captivating story that will help you find your purpose in leadership and in life."Todd Gongwer has spent nearly twenty years developing his expertise in leadership, team, and cultural dynamics. He has held executive-level positions in companies ranging from entrepreneurial start-ups to public entities. Todd also served as an assistant college basketball coach for over a decade. He lives in Indiana with his wife, Traci, and their two wonderful children, Kaden and Kira.
