Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series)

Patents form an important knowledge resource –much technical information represented in patents is not represented in scientific literature – and at the same time they are important, and economically highly relevant, legal documents. Between 1998 and 2008, the number of patent applications filed yearly worldwide grew by more than 50 percent. Yet still we see a huge gap between, on the one hand, the technologies that emerged from research labs and are in use in major Internet search engines or in enterprise search systems, and, on the other hand, the systems used daily by the patent search communities.

In the past few years, the editors have organized a series of events at the Information Retrieval Facility in Vienna, Austria, bringing together leading researchers in information retrieval (IR) and those who practice and use patent search, thus establishing an interdisciplinary dialogue between the IR and the intellectual property (IP) communities and creating a discursive as well as empirical space for sustainable discussion and innovation. This book is among the results of that joint effort. Many of the chapters were written jointly by IP and IR experts, while all chapters were reviewed by representatives of both communities, resulting in contributions that foster the proliferation and exchange of knowledge across fields and disciplinary mindsets.

Reflecting the efforts and views of both sides of the emerging patent search research and innovation community, this is a carefully selected, organized introduction to what has been achieved, and perhaps even more significantly to what remains to be achieved. The book is a valuable resource for IR researchers and IP professionals who are looking for a comprehensive overview of the state of the art in this domain.

From reader reviews:

Mary Fleming:

Book is written, printed, or created for everything. You can understand everything you want by a reserve. Book has a different type. As it is known to us that book is important point to bring us around the world. Adjacent to that you can your reading expertise was fluently. A reserve Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series) will make you to always be smarter. You can feel much more confidence if you can know about anything. But some of you think this open or reading a new book make you bored. It's not make you fun. Why they might be thought like that? Have you in search of best book or appropriate book with you?

Jenifer Bell:

This Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series) book is just not ordinary book, you have after that it the world is in your hands. The benefit you get by reading this book is information inside this publication incredible fresh, you will get information which is getting deeper a person read a lot of information you will get. That Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series) without we know teach the one who looking at it become critical in thinking and analyzing. Don't possibly be worry Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series) can bring when you are and not make your tote space or bookshelves' grow to be full because you can have it with your lovely laptop even cell phone. This Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series) having excellent arrangement in word and layout, so you will not experience uninterested in reading.

Francisca Varney:

Here thing why this specific Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series) are different and trusted to be yours. First of all studying a book is good nonetheless it depends in the content of computer which is the content is as scrumptious as food or not. Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series) giving you information deeper as different ways, you can find any publication out there but there is no book that similar with Current Challenges in Patent Information Retrieval: 29 (The Information Retrieval Series). It gives you thrill reading through journey, its open up your own eyes about the thing which happened in the world which is perhaps can be happened around you.
